ADEX Intraday Continuous Market Goes Live

BSP Takes Over Operational Activities

Ljubljana, 20 October 2026 – The ADEX Group has successfully launched its common Intraday Continuous Market environment, marking an important milestone in the further integration and harmonisation of the Slovenian, Hungarian and Serbian electricity markets.

With the go-live, BSP takes over the operational activities of the ADEX Group's Intraday Continuous Markets, becoming the single operational point of contact for Market Participants across the three markets. The new operational setup brings the intraday continuous markets operated within ADEX into a common M7 trading environment and introduces more harmonised processes for Market Participants.

Under the new framework, Market Participants continue to access and trade on the individual markets for which they are admitted, while benefiting from a common technical and operational environment. The integration enables streamlined operational procedures, harmonised trade limit management and a more consistent experience across the ADEX Intraday Continuous Markets.

The successful go-live is the result of extensive preparation, coordination and testing carried out by BSP, HUPX and SEEPEX, together with Market Participants and the involved project partners. The implementation included the migration to the common M7 environment as well as comprehensive member testing to ensure a smooth transition to the new operational model.

For BSP, taking over the operational activities represents an important extension of its role within the ADEX Group and builds on its experience in operating organised electricity markets. Centralising these activities at BSP will support efficient day-to-day market operations while providing Market Participants with a clear and unified operational point of contact.

Anže Predovnik, Chairman of the Management Board of ADEX Group said: "The successful go-live is an important achievement for ADEX and its Market Participants. By bringing intraday continuous market operations into a common environment and centralising operational activities at BSP, we are establishing a more harmonised and efficient framework for the three markets. We would like to thank our partners, Market Participants and everyone involved in the project for their excellent cooperation and contribution to this successful implementation."

The common ADEX Intraday Continuous Market environment went live on 20 October 2026, following the successful completion of the required testing and migration activities. The milestone represents another step in ADEX's continued development and its efforts to strengthen cooperation and integration across the Central and South-Eastern European electricity markets.
